ABSTRACT

A bilingual and bicultural organization, CISCO (Chicano-Indian Study Center of Oregon) assists students to escape the poverty cycle through vocational training, academic programs, and general guidance counseling. A major CISCO goal is to provide vocational training in the health care industry in conjunction with a program meeting the health needs of the student population, Chicanos, American Indians, and indigent whites in the immediate vicinity of Adair. Therefore, the perceived health needs of the Spanish and Indian population within the CISCO target area were measured. A public opinion sample survey was conducted in the four county target area--Benton, Lincoln, Linn, and Polk. One respondent from 351 households was interviewed either through door-to-door personal or telephone interviews. Of the 351 respondents, 235 considered themselves Spanish, 113 Indian, and 3 with both Spanish and Indian family members. Findings included: needs most often mentioned were communication-language barrier, transportation to and from medical care, more doctors desperately needed, financial help for low income people, and medical care for the elderly; 40.2% of those interviewed were interested or had someone in their household interested in a program that would train them for a career in the medical field; 20.5% of those interviewed with children required day care during the day which enabled them to be employed or attend educational or training programs; and 47% received financial assistance in paying medical bills while 50.4% did not. PRELUDE

The results contained herein should not be imputed to the universe, but interpreted in terms of the parameters as described and in relation to the time at which the investigation was undertaken and completed.

All results, estimates and observations are restricted by the limits of current knowledge and methodological constraints.

Unless otherwise noted, the tables in this report represent proportions as expressed in terms of percentages. While each proportion does not stipulate the equivalent real number it represents, the reader is encouraged to be cognizant of the different bases for computation used when drawing conclusions.

GMA Research recognizes there are many layers of information required to make a final decision concerning the subject at hand. Results should be reviewed in light of all information required to make a sound and reasoned decision.

Observations have been prepared for this report which reflect the dominant trend within a table of data; analysis, the review of data interrelationships has not been conducted within study parameters.

BACKGROUND

In June of 1973, CISCO (Chicano-Indian Study Center of Oregon), an Oregon non-profit corporation, was deeded 14 acres of land and ten buildings at the former Adair Air Force Base near Corvallis, Oregon. CISCO, incorporated in 1971, is a bilingual and bicultural organization dedicated to assisting students to escape the poverty cycle through vocational training, academic programs and general guidance counseling. The purpose of the deed to CISCO by the federal government was to permit formation of a community environment enabling entire families to be retrained and brought into the mainstream of American Life.

A major CISCO goal is to provide vocational training in the health care industry in conjunction with a program meeting the health needs of the student population as well as those of Chicanos, Indians and indigent whites in the immediate vicinity of Adair.

This research project was designed to measure the self perceived health needs of the Spanish and Indian populations residing in the CISCO target area at the time of the study.

OBSERVATIONS

OBSERVATIONS

Observations refers to the review of an individual data table and the development of a brief statement which reflects the dominant trend within that table. These observations are made on the basis of grand total results only and do not reflect the perceptions of various sub-groups (such as Indian, Spanish, various age groups, geographic locations etc.).

It is highly recommended the reader conduct analysis of the information to further reflect on the observations. All information computerized for this survey is stored by GMA Research Corporation for future reference.

1. 67% of those households interviewed have adult household members which consider themselves of Spanish origin; 32.2% American Indian or Native American origin and .9% both Spanish and American Indian origin.

2. 98.6% of those interviewed consider themselves permanent, year round residents of the target area.

3. 7.4% of those interviewed have household members other than their immediate family; 92.6% have only their immediate family or themselves living in their households.

4. 89.2% of those intervewed indicate someone in their household has had a physical examination within the last five years.

5. 72.4% of those households interviewed have had someone in their household who has had a pap smear during the past five years.

11. 79.2% of those interviewed have gone to the doctor or received medical care which did not require overnight stays at a hospital during the past year.

12. A complete listing of reasons, facilities and facility locations where respondents were treated for health problems which did not require overnight stays is found on page 38 . Due to the extensive and specific nature of this list, results are not summarized here.

13. 32.8% of those households interviewed had household members who stayed overnight at a hospital during the last 12 months. A complete list of the reason for overnight stays, facilities and facility locations is found on page 51 .

14. Among the 32.8% who indicated they had household members who stayed overnight at a hospital during the last 12 months, 26.2% required further services or treatments after they left the hospital.

15. Among the 26.2% who required further services or treatments after they left the hospital, 42.6% were referred to periodic outpatient care, 3.2% to rehabilitation or special training, 1.1% to a special hospital and the remainder, 47.9%, were most frequently referred for further checkups.

16. 29.6% of those interviewed recall a recent time when they felt they or a family member should see a doctor but didn't go.

17. Among the 29.6% interviewed who recall a recent time when they felt they or a family member should see a doctor but didn't go, the following reasons represent the most frequently cited reasons for not going:

"Costs too much"	28.3%
"No way of getting there"	14.5%
"Problem went away"	10.7%

18. 17.1% of those households interviewed indicate transportation is a problem in getting to and from a source of health care.

19. Of the 17.1% who indicated transportation is a problem in getting to and from a source of health care, most indicated as their reason: "No car while other family members work."

20. 5.1% of those interviewed indicate that caring for their children has prevented them from obtaining needed health care.

21. 1.4% of those interviewed indicate that a family member has been refused admission to a hospital during the past year.

22. 17.4% indicate they do find it difficult to communicate, talk to or understand their doctor not because of medical talk or a physical hearing problem but due to the doctor not understanding their culture or language.

23. Among the 17.4% who find it difficult to communicate with their doctor, 76.2% indicate "language" as the principal reason, 7.9% "culture" and 15.9% both "culture and language."

24. 47% receive financial assistance in paying medical bills; 50.4% do not.

25. Among the 47% receiving financial assistance, the majority mentioned "insurance" or a specific insurance plan (i.e. Blue Cross, Welfare, Medicare, Aetna etc.) as their source of financial assistance.

26. 68.9% of those interviewed currently have some form of health insurance.

27. Among the 68.9% who have some form of health insurance, 85.8% are covered for overnight stays at a hospital, 69.2% for visits to a doctor not requiring overnight stays at a hospital.

28. 55.8% currently have some type of medical card.

29. Among those who currently have some type of medical card, most indicated an insurance company or welfare card.

30. Among the American Indian or Native Americans interviewed, 61.8% indicate they are enrolled, 14.7% landless and 23.5% terminated.

31. Among the 61.8% American Indians enrolled, 77.6% indicate their tribe does not pay for medical care, 13.4% indicate their tribe does pay for medical care and 9.0% are unsure.

32. 80.6% of those interviewed indicate they are satisfied with the medical care they and members of their family are receiveing in their area; 17.9% are not satisfied. Reasons cited for satisfaction or dissatisfaction are varied and specifically identified on page 78.

33. 76.1% indicate health care facilities such as hospitals and clinics in their area are adequate to meet their needs and the needs of their family; 14.8% do not feel facilities are adequate. Reasons cited for the above responses are varied and specifically identified on page 93.

34. When asked to think seriously about the health needs of their friends and neighbors in the area, the following needs were most often mentioned:

"Communication-language barrier"

"Transportation to and from medical care"

"More doctors desperately needed"

"Financial help for low income people"

"Medical care for the elderly"

35. When read the following description of a health care facility:

A medical dental clinic located in this area and staffed by a general doctor, pediatrician (child doctor) and dentist who speak both Spanish and English. The facility is designed to serve the medical needs of Spanish speaking and American Indian persons in this area.

76.1% indicated a facility like that is needed in the area.

When asked if they would use the facility, 41.6% indicated they would "definitely use", 33.6% "probably use" and 23.6% "definitely not use" the facility.

Among those who indicated they would "definitely" or "probably use" the facility, most cited communication and language problems as a primary reason. Most of those who indicated they would use the facility qualified their answers with "if the location is convenient", "only if doctors were good", "if it costs less", "if we could get prompt and good care."

36. Asked to identify the best location for a health facility, most indicated the Independence - Albany - Corvallis - Salem area which reflects the distribution of the households interviewed.

37. When read the following description of another medical clinic with CISCO as the sponsor and the location at Camp Adair:

> A medical-dental clinic located at Camp Adair sponsored by the Chicano-Indian Studies Center of Oregon and staffed by general doctor, pediatrician (child doctor) and dentist who speaks both Spanish and English. It is designed to serve the medical needs of Spanish speaking and American Indian persons in this area.

79.2% indicated they feel a facility like that is needed in this area; 14.8% feel a facility like that is not needed in the area.

When asked if they or members of their family would use the facility, 31.3% indicated "definitely use", 29.6% "probably use" and 36.2% "definitely not use."

This represents a drop in probable users from 75.2% to 60.9% when the medical facility is located at Camp Adair and sponsored by CISCO.

Among those who would most likely use the facility, the following reasons were most often cited:

"Would like medical language in Spanish"

"Need doctors that understand language and culture so Mexicans can be more confident and trusting towards doctors"

"Location is convenient"

"Express oneself better in Spanish"

"Other medical costs are very high-clinic would be cheaper"

Among those who would not use the facility, the following reasons were most frequently cited:

"Location is too far to travel"

"Satisfied with present doctor"

38. 52.7% definitely feel there is a need for them or a family member to have a bi-lingual or bi-cultural medical facility in the area; 46.4% do not.

39. 20.5% of those interviewed with children require day care during the day which enables them to be employed or attend educational or training programs.

40. 40.2% of those interviewed are interested or have someone in their household interested in a program that would train them for a career in the medical field, 55.8% do not.

For demographic information (age, sex, income etc.) see pages 130-133.

See Addendum to this report for additional cross tabulations by ethnic group requested after the preceding observations were prepared.

RESEARCH OBJECTIVE

To measure and document the perceived health needs of the Spanish and Indian populations within the CISCO target area.

GENERAL RESEARCH DESIGN (see below for specific design)

A public opinion sample survey was conducted using the door-to-door personal interview and telephone techniques with one respondent each from 351 households; 235 of which consider themselves Spanish, 113 American Indian and 3 with both Spanish and American Indian family members. Interviews were conducted between May and June, 1975.

SPECIFIC RESEARCH DESIGN

Questionnaire

A list of potential investigative areas was generated which would be of assistance in determining the magnitude, if any, of the perceived health needs among the target area populations.

This list was developed jointly by CISCO, ORMP (Oregon Regional Medical Program) and GMA Research Corporation.

From this list of investigative areas, a draft questionnaire was developed and reviewed by CISCO and ORMP.

The questionniare is found in the appendix to this report.

Sample Stratification

The sample was geographically stratified proportionate to the Spanish language and American Indian populations estimated during the 1970 Oregon Census. This means that if 10% of the known total Indian population in the area lives in a specific geographic area, an attempt was then made to draw 10% of the Indian sample from that area. Geographic stratification of the sample helps to insure one area is not over represented in the sample.

The percent of Spanish language and American Indian populations was determined for the total four county target area (Benton, Lincoln, Linn and Polk) from U.S. Census data. These percentages were multiplied by the total sample size selected and proportioned within each Census County Division[1] (a sub census area of a county) according to the percent of Spanish language and American Indian populations identified in each division.

[1] Census County Division Maps are found in the Appendix.

Because the U.S. Census data was five years old at the time of this study, the Census data was used as a guideline only in selecting areas to conduct the interviewing.

After the sample guidelines were prepared, it was determined that certain areas within the southern portion of Marion County (specifically Jefferson and Salem Census County Divisions) should be included in the sampling. The southern portion of Marion County bordering the counties of Polk and Linn was included in the survey. For the above reasons, the reader will find Marion County excluded from the sample guidelines although the reported output includes Marion County. For sampling purposes, the portion of Marion County interviewed was considered a part of the Polk and Linn Counties sample size requirement.

A complete listing of the number of Spanish and Native American persons found by the U.S. Census by County and Census County Division will be found on page 15.

Interviewing Technique

The small number of Spanish and Native American persons in the survey area and the areas rural nature required a practical method of obtaining a representative sample.

There are an estimated 3,375 persons of Spanish and Native American backgrounds in the survey area. This represents 1.6% of the total population in the area. The following table illustrates the surveyed population number compared, by county, to the total population in each county.

County	Total Pop.[2]	Target Pop.[3]
Benton	63,500	720
Lincoln	27,300	495
Linn	79,900	1,018
Polk	40,050	1,142
Total	210,750	3,375

Incidence: 3,375/210,750 = 1.6%

[2]U.S. Census estimate as of 7/1/74.

[3]1970 Census estimate

In the original proposal for this project, it was anticipated all interviewing would be accomplished by the door-to-door, in home technique. The door-to-door technique involves directing the interviewer to specific households from which the respondent is selected for the interview.

After several weeks of door-to-door interviewing, it was found that the cost for each interview was high and the time required to obtain those interviews unduely long. If the door-to-door technique were continued, the budget for the project and report completion time would be exceeded. The apparent lack of enthusiasm and willingness to provide cooperation by many groups in the area also precluded continuing the study using the door-to-door technique.

After serious examination of alternative interview techniques, it was decided to attempt to complete the survey by telephone. Discussions with CISCO officials and interviewers used from the survey area indicated that most of the surveyed population have telephones. A review of the door-to-door surveys completed also indicated most had telephones. Although no factual information was available on the percent of the surveyed households with telephones, all parties agreed to test this technique.

The telephone technique was tested using WATS lines facilities through the Oregon Regional Medical Program. Interviewers were used directly from GMA Research Interviewing Services, the interviewing division of GMA Research. A supervisor was on the job at all times to insure interviewing progressed correctly.

After one week of successful telephone interviewing, it was agreed to continue with the procedure.

Interviews by the telephone were drawn in the following fashion:

1. Spanish and Native American surnames were searched in each areas telephone directory and called.

2. Upon successful competion of an interview with a respondent meeting the interview requirements, referrals were requested. These referrals were then interviewed and asked for more referrals.

3. After the referrals were used, general calling throughout the directory was initiated, the interviewer using the respondent filter questions to determine if the household qualified for the compete interview.

4. Quotas were set by telephone directory to insure a proper geographic distribution.

If any bias was introduced into the survey results by the telephone technique, it would have to be that those without telephones were not interviewed. However, based on a comparison of the income, household location and age distribution of the sample, it would appear any such bias is minimal. There was not a significant discrepancy between the characteristics of the sample and that of the population as shown in the next section.

Therefore, the change in interviewing strategy does not appear to have significantly biased the sample.

Sample Size

During the planning phase for this project, a total sample size of 384 persons was selected. The sample size selected is based on sampling theory.

According to sampling theory, if the researcher wants 95% confidence in the data that results are plus or minus 5% of that which would result if the entire population were surveyed, a sample size of 384 is required.

Sampling theory requires that all interviews be selected randomly, i.e. every person in the population has an equal chance of being selected for the interview.

Because developing a purely random sample is very difficult, the sample size was used as a guideline only.

The actual sample size obtained was 351. This means 351 persons were selected from 351 households to represent all of those in the area, i.e. the Spanish and Indian populations. These 351 persons were speaking for themselves in the case of an individual living alone or only for their immediate family where one or more families lived in a household. Only 1.4% of the households surveyed had more than one family living in the household.

Based on sampling theory, a sample size of 351 households produces results in which you may have 95% confidence the results are approximately plus or minus 5.22% of that which would result if the entire population were sampled. This error level applies to responses at the 50%-50% level, a slightly larger error encountered the smaller the sample size.

Based on the survey results, the total number of persons represented by the 351 respondents is 1,621. The 1,621 persons was found by adding the number of persons identified in each household interviewed.

Dividing the 1,621 persons represented by those interviewed into the 1970, U.S. Census estimated total combined Spanish and Native American populations (3.375 persons) in the survey area, the sample represents 48% of the surveyed population.

This means that nearly half of the Spanish and Native American populations in the area were interviewed.

Sample Representation

An accepted method of determining if a sample is representative of the population from which it is drawn requires the comparison of sample characteristics to the characteristics of the population surveyed.

The following tables compare geographic area, age and income distributions of the the CISCO sample to information generated by the U.S. Census in 1969.

The tables compare only the characteristics of the Spanish population as readily available census texts collapse the Indian population characteristics into an "Other" category. Thus, the tables compare the total sample characteristics (Indian and Spanish) to what is known of the Spanish population. Although these comparisons are not exact, they do tend to support the conclusion that the sample is sound and does tend to represent the population from which is was drawn.

If the reader requires further data, it is suggested the Population Research Center of Portland State University be contacted. The Center is a Census data depository and special computer runs can be made to obtain selected characteristics on populations which are not readily available through previously printed Census documents.

Lincoln County data is not found in the income and age tables. The U.S. Census did not print in readily available texts the Spanish population characteristics if less than 400 Spanish persons were identified in that area.

Additional information concerning the sample is also found on the following pages. This data outlines the cities and census county division from which the respondents were sampled.

The differences between the sample and the population are also shown. As can be seen, there is little difference between the sample and population characteristics which further reflects on the validity of the sample.

*Marion County was not included in the original sampling guidelines. Only the Jefferson and Salem Census County Divisions (southern portions) were included in the sampling. Therefore, the comparisons of sample data to census data are not exact.

RESPONDENT AGE CHARACTERISTICS

Spanish Language Only Compared to Total Sample

The following table illustrates the age distribution in each of the four counties surveyed according to the U.S. Census. The census age distribution is than averaged and compared to the age distribution of the respondents in the CISCO survey. Due to variances in the manner by which the Census Bureau produces age counts by age categories, all of those under 14 years of age found in the Census were eliminated from the base over which the percentages are calculated. As can be seen, the age distribution of the CISCO sample closely parallels that found by the U.S. Census in 1969. The only age category which shows a significant variance is the 24 and under age group. This is because the CISCO survey interviewed only heads of households who tend to be older than the general population from which the U.S. Census characteristic statistics are generated.

Average Number of Persons Per Family and Per Household

This estimate is derived by adding the total number of identified males and females in each respondent's household and dividing by the 351 survey respondents.

The per family average is determined by subtracting from the total household members those identified as not a part of the respondents immediate family.

Total Respondents Immediate Family Members	Total Others in Household Not From Respondents Immediate Family	Average Family Size	Average Household Size
1,565	56	4.46	4.62

Interviewers

Spanish language and American Indian interviewers were used for the door-to-door interviews. Spanish speaking and North American interviewers were utilized for the telephone interviewing.

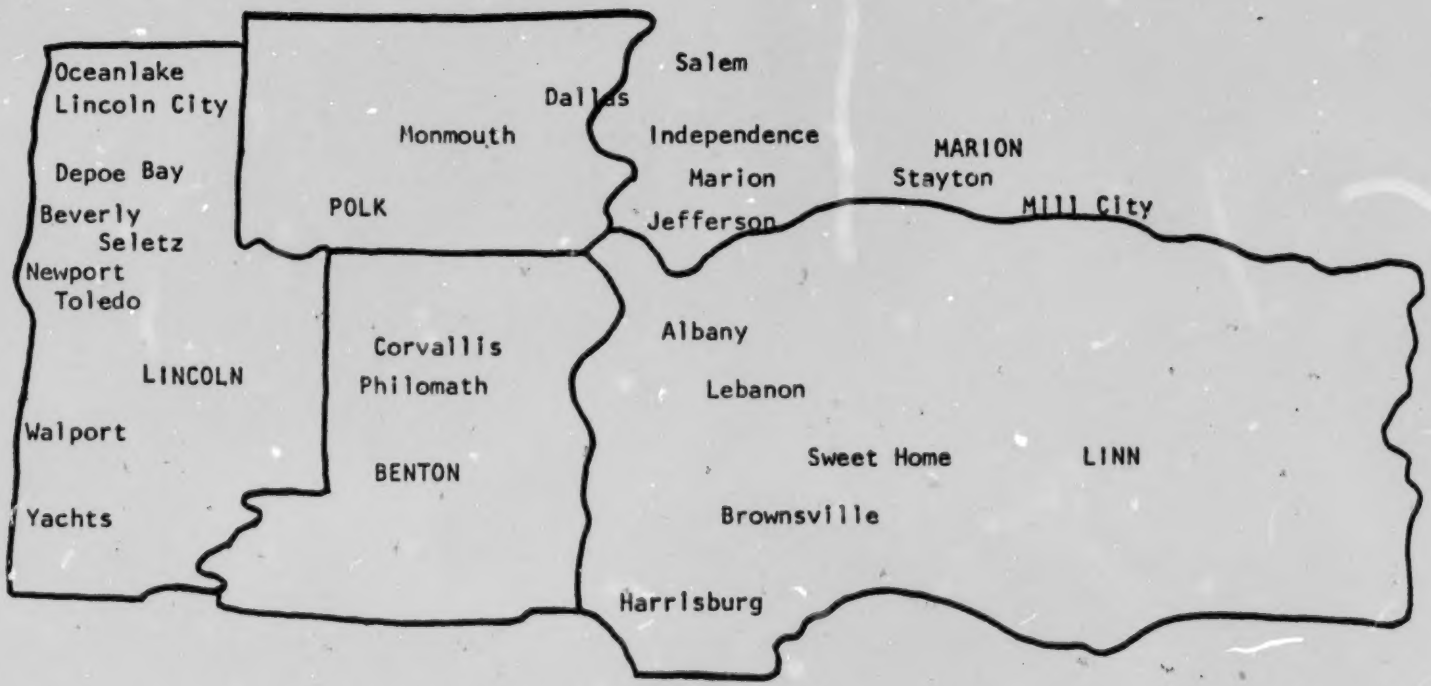
All interviewers were trained, briefed, and controlled by GMA Research Corporation.

Coding/Editing/Tabulation

The surveys were verified and edited by GMA Research. Coding of responses into categories for computerization was accomplished.

All data is stored on disc pack and available for future reference upon request to GMA Research.

TARGET AREA MAP



GRAND TOTAL RESULTS BY QUESTION

NOTE: Each open end question is tabulated by Spanish and Indian responses. All computerized questions are shown on the grand total level only.

All information is stored on computer disc pack should further reference be necessary.

Where a B is noted on the responses, this refers to Blanks which are respondents who did not, for whatever reason, respond to the question or to whom the question did not apply.

Unless otherwise stated, all percentages are calculated over a base of 351 responses. Where the percentages are calculated over another base, it is so stated on the table.

To generate actual numbers from these tables, simpley multiply the percent times the base number from which it was generated.

24e. Probably Use: (cont.)

I don't think Camp Adair is too far away for us to drive and use their clinic - We'd probably go if weren't already satisfied with our doctor	1
If they wouldn't give a big hassle about getting in	1
Would use for general medical needs, but for dentist and other special needs I wouldn't feel comfortable changing - doctors already are familiar with me and my medical history	1

24e. Definitely Not Use: (Indian)

Location is too far	22
Satisfied with present care (medical)	14
We don't need this type of facility	7
Medical insurance is satisfactory	3
Not until changes in the operation of CISCO are made and a change in staff (don't want to be associated with CISCO)	2
Need one here in Siletz	1
Don't know anything about Camp Adair	1
It's good for other people	1
I'd work there, but personally don't have the need for it	1
How could Indian speaking person help Spanish or vice versa - no way!	1
No problem in speaking English	1

24e. Don't Know: (Indian)

Have our doctors and dentist that we're satisfied with	2
If I thought it was better than what I use now, I would	1
Depends on doctor	1
I know they need it - the question of our using it depends on how it stands - just how it stands	1
Best location because of the people in the area (Spanish and Indian) but don't know if we would because of location	1

24e. Probably Not Use: (Indian)

Since we are moving, we'll be farther away	1
Because of our financial statement, would only use it if we didn't have any money	1

INTRODUCTION

The following tables reflect responses to selected questions by ethnic group (Spanish and Indian).

The question number refers to the same question number found on the questionnaire.

Unless otherwise shown, the base for the Indian tabulation is 113 respondents; for the Spanish tabulation 235. A third category referred to as "both" is not shown due to the small number of persons with "both" Spanish and Indian persons living in their households. A total of 3 respondents indicated "both".

If the base used to calculate the percentages is less than that mentioned above, it is shown next to the percentage total for each table.
